2. 4Q19 Sales analysis

- IT'S HANBUL's sales in China temporarily recovered around Single's Day in November, but its sales environment continues to be sluggish overall.
- In addition to efforts to improve profitability by reducing franchises and distribution stores, domestic channels are consistently striving to expand new channels such as online stores, TV shopping and $\mathrm{H} \& \mathrm{~B}$.
- The high margin Zeroid is leading company-wide profit growth for Neopharm, and existing brands such as Atopalm are maintaining steadiness.
- The newly launched brand T-els and health supplement brand Bulgaricus are expected to contribute to sales growth as a new driving momentum.
- The Chinese corporate body reached beyond its annual sales goal of KRW 20 billion, boosted mainly by Single's Day sales and is expected to focus on its OEM and ODM businesses.

3. 4Q19 Earnings analysis

- As for the gross margin, there is an upturn trend in the rate of sales cost due to increased raw cost per unit product following the decrease in production and discount policies to promote sales.
- IT'S HANBUL is decreasing its SG&A due to a company-wide effort to decrease costs by decreasing underachieving stores and reorganizing its labor force, but Neopharm's SG&A is expected to rise slightly based on marketing investments to find new sources of growth by launching new brands such as T-els and Bulgaricus.
